AFTER THE CRASH

A traumatic brain injury (TBI) can change your life instantly and leave you feeling as if you're living with a stranger in your head. You've survived a cataclysmic event, but living a normal life again seems impossible. How can you thrive in your day-to-day when healing is a battle?

Neurology nurse practitioner Kelly Tuttle—also a TBI survivor—offers help and hope in her guide, After the Crash. Based on her own recovery experiences, Kelly shares strategic steps that will help you keep working, learning, and living life as your brain and body heal. She also provides tips to prevent your livelihood from being devastated by a TBI.

"I think at first it was curiosity that drew me to this particular book. Once I started to read it, was very interesting. From the spiritual side, personal side, but most of all the strength the author drew from her faith to find her way through unthinkable tragedy. Well written."—Amazon Review

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Kelly Tuttle

Kelly Tuttle joined the "head injury survivors club" (as she described it) in 2015, the night another car pulled in front of her as she was driving. It wasn't until three months later that she realized something was seriously wrong. Kelly's traumatic brain injury (TBI) marked the beginning of a new life and personal journey of self-rediscovery.

“This is to my shame the first Mark Ellis book I've read. If the others evoke a vanished London so impressively, are graced with such complex plots and deep characterisation, and, above all are written so well, I shall have to read them all.”—The London Times

Mark Ellis

Mark Ellis is a thriller writer from Wales and a former barrister and entrepreneur. Dead In The Water is the fifth in his series about the adventures of wartime London detective Frank Merlin. Mark has always been fascinated by WW2, particularly life on the Home Front and the fact that while the nation was engaged in a heroic endeavour, crime flourished. This was an intriguing, harsh and cruel world – the world of DCI Frank Merlin.

ARTIFICIAL WISDOM

It's 2050, a decade after a heatwave that killed four hundred million across the Persian Gulf, including journalist Marcus Tully's wife. Now he must uncover the truth: was the disaster natural? Or is the weather now a weapon of genocide? A whistleblower pulls Tully into a murder investigation at the centre of an election battle for a global dictator, with a mandate to prevent a climate apocalypse. A former US President campaigns against the first AI politician for the position, but someone is trying to sway the outcome. Tully must convince the world to face the truth and make hard choices about the future of the species. But will humanity ultimately choose salvation over freedom, whatever the cost?

AWOKE

Turning eighteen is more than just a rite of passage for Katya Stevens; it's a chilling awakening. Suddenly thrust into a world she'd believed was a mere figment of childhood nightmares, she finds herself where the dead refuse to rest, and the balance of life teeters perilously.

Her once-hidden ability to see the departed reveals not only the world's deadly mysteries but also the depths of her soul. Gregor, an enigmatic Grim Reaper, isn't just a harbinger of death but a symbol of the battling forces at play—especially The Want, spirits distorted by their defiance against the natural transition to the beyond.

THE INVISIBLE RED STRING

The four members of a therapeutic meditation group find themselves subtly bound to one another in unexpected ways as they journey through their own wounds. As their most personal stories are gradually told, including revelations of abuse, abandonment, hope, and desire, the connections pulling them together become harder to resist, as if by destiny. Weaving together relevant themes of wealth inequality, cultural clashes, childhood trauma, forbidden love, and more, this slow-burning slice of philosophical exploration encourages readers to look deeper, pay attention, and free the locked-away parts of our hearts and minds, for a truly liberating story that deftly mixes self-help with visionary fiction.
